

J is for Jelly!

As part of our Letters and Sounds literacy lessons, every week we explore a new letter. We talk about its name, the phonetic sound it makes and all the words we can think of that start with it.

“J” was very popular and when the children came up with the word jelly, we decided we must make some! The children helped to break up the jelly pieces, watched what happened when we added hot water, and took it carefully to the fridge. Our afternoon snack was delicious, and the children loved jiggling their jelly!
