

U14 Boys make a spirited effort against an exceptionally strong Castleford Academy side

This was an excellent performance for a group of boys who've not played a competitive game of rugby for nearly two years! A 2-9 reversal, on the face of it, seems like a poor result but this was far from it. With 10 times as many boys to select from Castleford Academy were always going to be a tough test however, the Gateways boys stuck to their guns, never gave in, and were rewarded with two second half tries from the outstanding player of the day, Alfie Rae-Nelson.

Playing a combination of rugby league and rugby union, the Gateways boys tackled hard, ran hard and moved the ball quickly through the hands and caused the opposition plenty of problems. They'll be unlikely to face any tougher test than this one and we look forward to our next fixture versus Silcoates on the 11th October.

Well done to you all!
