

Upper 4 geographers complete Mission Impossible challenge

This half term, Upper 4 are studying Europe and have started their topic by trying to learn the countries that make up this continent.

In order to revise their place knowledge, this week, they participated in a Mission Impossible challenge that saw them working in small groups to solve six puzzles.

From Munich to Latvia, then through Vatican City, each puzzle and coded map got them closer to the Consulate of Switzerland in Monaco where they had to hack a safe that would give them the information they needed to go head-to-head with The Syndicate, the rogue group they had been chasing.

So, was their mission actually impossible? As it turns out, no! In true Tom Cruise style, Upper 4 successfully located, analysed, calculated, interpreted, synthesised and downloaded the information needed.

It was lovely to see the way in which pupils worked collaboratively on this exercise and their place knowledge has advanced significantly in such a short period of time.
