

Lower 1 go to the moon

Lower 1 are continuing their study of famous explorers by learning about Neil Armstrong and his voyage to the moon. The children stepped into the moon boots of Armstrong, Aldrin and Collins to imagine themselves hurtling towards the moon in Apollo 11.

Would it all go to plan? Would they ever see Earth again? Is the moon made of green cheese? Do we really have to go to the toilet in a bag? All sensible questions, each more significant than the last.

The children participated enthusiastically and imaginatively in their role play activity and gained valuable insight into the historical event as well as drawing interesting comparisons and contrasts with the voyage of Christopher Columbus.
