

Writing in Braille – with Cheerios!

In science this term, we have been learning all about the human body. We have concentrated on learning about the 5 senses. Today we learnt about sight and talked about how some people are not able to see.

We found out about Louis Braille and how he lost his sight following a nasty accident. We learnt that Louis Braille went on to invent a way of writing that people could read using their finger-tips! The children enjoyed using the Braille alphabet to write their names using Cheerios – letter we could feel (and eat afterwards!).
