

'An Inspector Calls' at Gateways

Having finished a sample of 'Power and Conflict' poetry last half term in English lessons, our Lower 5 class have moved onto something more dramatic - JB Priestley's play 'An Inspector Calls' is just the ticket!

Through exploring some of the play's key themes and ideas, we have discussed the reflection it gives of society in 1912, and what relevance this might have to our world in 2023. The intriguing array of characters have given pupils the opportunity to really bring them alive in the classroom.

This is a very encouraging foundation for the future as this will be a key text on the GCSE English Literature exam!
