

Pop Art

Lower 3 children have been working extremely hard on their Pop Art topic. They have created some fantastic imitations of Andy Warhol's 'Soup Cans' in their own brands. This was a particularly difficult task as they had to draw the same object multiple times trying not to change the shape or size.

They have also completed their own Lichtenstein-inspired work which included taking a photo of themselves or a family member in a significant pop-art style and then using grid drawing and Ben-Day dots to complete their portraits. We think these look great - well done Lower 3!
