

Soheil and the Middleton Railway Trust

Upper 5 pupil Soheil is a passionate steam-train enthusiast who volunteers at the Middleton Railway Trust. As a volunteer he undertakes a variety of tasks such as: maintaining the engines and tracks; helping with the upkeep of the carriages; ticket-collecting and numerous other roles to ensure the railway can run operate successfully.

He has recently written an article for 'The Old Run', the journal of the railway, contained in the recently published, ironically late-running, October edition. In it, Soheil gives the reader a number of techniques on how to improve one's photography skills, especially when trying to shoot steam trains.
