

Can lemons generate electricity?

This week in science, Lower 2 pupils attempted to create electricity from lemons and potatoes! Using zinc and copper, they created their own electrical circuit to power a light bulb. Unfortunately, we were unsuccessful, but science is sometimes about exploration and getting things wrong. The pupils came up with some great ideas for how they would change their experiment next time.

Mr Charlie Grasby and Miss Emily Kirk