

A visit to Harlow Carr gardens

On the last day of the Spring term, Transition had an amazing trip to Harlow Carr.

First, the children had a lot of fun exploring the fantastic playgrounds. They challenged themselves with balancing, climbing, sliding and jumping. I am pleased to report that some parents in the playgrounds commented positively about how well-behaved Transition were and how polite they were with the other visitors.

Then, we took part in a wonderful 'How Plants Grow' workshop. The children learnt all about seeds – even dissecting some to explore what is inside! We then planted our own sweet pea flowers.

Finally, we acted as Botanists – exploring the gardens and identifying some of the plants and flowers we saw. We even named some 'new' species!

Overall, we had a fantastic time and learnt lots about plants.
