

Upper 4 create a tableau

Performers often find it a challenge to retain blocking and hit positions as directed. To help develop their exam scripts, Upper 4 were asked to create a tableau (freeze frame) to improve their spatial awareness when staging their piece.

There are four important things to consider, actions – to help the audience understand; levels – to make it interesting and understand different statuses; expression – to show how the character is feeling and storytelling to help the audience understand what is happening. The pupils created vocal pictures, delivering a dramatic line before hitting a dynamic frozen position. This technique will help develop moment when adding direction to their exam piece.

Well done upper 4!
