

Upper 3 DT - communicating design ideas

Upper 3 have been refining their drawing skills to help communicate their design ideas for a wooden block animal. As part of the design process pupils have learnt what a design brief is, how to write a specification and have used their specification to influence their design choices.

As part of this task pupils have learnt how to visually communicate ideas through neatly coloured designs and rendered detail supported with annotations about appropriate materials and processes that they intend to use when manufacturing their outcomes.

Some very imaginative ideas! I look forward to sharing their practical outcomes at the end of term.
