

Lower 1 colour theory

This week in art, the children in Lower 1 have been extending their learning about colour and applying this to their work. We recapped the primary colours and practised making secondary colours by mixing paint together. The children worked carefully to experiment with the paint. They then started making tints by adding small amounts of white to their chosen colour and created a gradient on their page. We discussed how to make shades by adding black to our colours and how this must be done more carefully as the black is a much stronger colour.

Next week they are going to explore the work of Mark Rothko and make colour fields next week to show different emotions by mixing their own colours. Well done, Lower 1!
